Hurricane speed increases; County prepares for worst

By RICH ADAMS
Hancock County Civil Defense volunteers are preparing emergency shelters and equipment as Hurricane Allen, rated among the three most dangerous storms of the century, moved late Wednesday in a west-north-westerly direction toward the northwestern tip of Cuba.

The Mobile, Ala., office of the National Weather Service Wednesday afternoon said the storm, the first of the hurricane season, was gaining speed and was moving over the Cayman Islands in the Caribbean Sea south of Cuba.

At 2 p.m. Wednesday the storm was located at latitude 20.2 degrees north and longitude 80.2 degrees west, packing winds estimated at 135 miles per hour, the weather service reported. The storm has intensified in forward speed from a steady 20 miles-per-hour to between 20 and 25 miles-per-hour in a west-north-westerly direction.

Hurricane-force winds were reported in the Jamaican Islands and Grand Cayman Island, the service said Wednesday.

Robert Clark, a Hancock County Civil Defense employee, said all shelters and emergency equipment have been prepared and are ready to be put to use should the storm begin movement toward the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

"We have been working with the Hancock County Chapter of the American Red Cross in preparing the shelters and equipment," Clark said Wednesday afternoon.

"We have the emergency mobile unit equipped with radios. All we can do now is wait to see what the storm does," he continued.

"We are in better shape this time than we have ever been. We cannot do anything but prepare for the worst," he added.

"We are ready to open the shelters in case the hurricane should turn in this direction," Clark said.

Clark said the county is covered with a contingency plan which has been prepared for emergencies.

If the hurricane does make a move toward the Coast, all county agencies are informed as to what precautions to take, he reported.

Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin, in Jackson for budget hearings, was unavailable for comment.

"I have a direct line to Bobby (Boudin). I can contact him if we go into an emergency situation, and he can be here in a few hours," Clark stated.

Dee Gallegos, director of the Hancock County Chapter of the American Red Cross, listed instructions for persons seeking shelter in the event the hurricane should move this way.

"People desiring shelter at Waveland Elementary School or Bay St. Louis Junior High School should bring enough food for themselves for the first eight

HAY POWER-Jack Whitney, 84, has used a mule for six or seven years to plow his three gardens at his Bayou LaCroix Road home. The former meatcutter said he bought the mule and broke it for plowing. Whitney said the animal is often borrowed by neighbors who own tractors because "a mule can get places a tractor cannot." Whitney is a native of Gainsville, now the site of the National Space Technology Laboratories. He said growing squash, okra, and other vegetables is a hobby to "keep my mind occupied. At my age you need a hobby." He does not know the age of the plows he uses, but said one belonged to his grandfather. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

Hospital trustee resigns, criticizes board, Gilmore

By RICH ADAMS
And EDGAR PEREZ
A director of the Hancock General Hospital this week resigned from the post with a scathing criticism of fellow board members and the hospital's administration.

Lydia Schultz, appointed to the hospital board by the District Four Supervisor Sam Pernicaro, submitted a written resignation to Pernicaro who Monday filed the letter with the board of supervisors.

After accepting Schultz's resignation, the supervisors named Dr. Joseph Lee of Bay St. Louis to fill the vacant slot on the hospital board.

"I urge you and the other supervisors to consider the appointment of a physician to the board, or someone with a lot of experience in hospitals," Schultz said in her letter to Pernicaro.

Pernicaro, in turn, recommended Lee to replace Schultz.

Lee is a general surgeon with offices on the corner of Second and DeMontuzin Streets in Bay St. Louis, and is one of seven physicians on the hospital's active medical staff.

Schultz's resignation, effective August 19, further adds to the woes of the problem-plagued hospital which was denied accreditation earlier this year.

The Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation determined the local hospital could not receive a fourth one-year probationary accreditation.

On August 1, Doctors Sidney Chevis, John Rutherford III and David Byrne resigned from the hospital's active medical staff.

Those doctors' reasons for resignation varied from lack of up-to-date equipment to poor administrative planning at Hancock General, as well as pressing duties at other Coast hospitals.

In her letter to Pernicaro dated July 9, Schultz accuses the hospital board of a "lack of performance."

"For the past three years I have endeavored to work and fight for what I felt was proper management of Hancock General Hospital," she stated.

"I have watched with frustration the lack of performance of the Board of Trustees...occasionally bordering on ignorance of its responsibilities and sometimes not really caring," she continues.

Schultz cites in the letter her previous experience "as secretary to administrators of a large hospital."

Schultz questions Gilmore's training as a hospital administrator and his abilities in that position.

She feels "employee morale has suffered under his administration," and blames Gilmore for what she considers a "constant friction" between board and medical staff, board and employees, and employees and medical staff.

"The consequence of the latter affects patient care," she contends.

"He has consistently kept four board members on his side..." Schultz says of a rift which has on occasion found Schultz allied with Rev. Charles Johnson, hospital board president, and

Dr. Chevis, former medical chief-of-staff, against Gilmore and other board members.

Schultz reportedly opposed the selection of Gilmore as hospital administrator in April, 1977, but subsequently voted to hire the former Poplarville Hospital head.

Sources reported this week, however, Schultz attempted to oust Gilmore some two or three weeks after he was hired. Schultz alleges in her letter any complaints against Gilmore are dismissed as political moves to oust him.

Dr. Rutherford's father, former Chancery Court Clerk J. D. Rutherford Jr., has consistently denied he is interested in the hospital administrator's position.

Rutherford also served as a trustee at Hancock General Hospital.

Rutherford was defeated last year in his bid for a third term as court clerk. Schultz alleges Gilmore meets other

Longo conducts in-house census

By RICH ADAMS
Waveland Mayor John Longo said Tuesday his office has discovered at least 200 people not counted in the 1980 U.S. Census during an in-house survey being conducted by that city.

Longo was the first Mississippi Gulf Coast official to object to initial results of the 1980 census last month, claiming the population figures released by the U.S. Census Bureau are too low.

Tuesday Longo said his office has been telephoning all listed Waveland residents and sending notices in utility bills encouraging residents who did not complete their forms, or did not receive a form in the mail, to contact his office.

"In the two weeks we have been making the calls, we have found 200 people who did not receive census forms," City Clerk and Alderman Barbara Rappold said Tuesday before the board's regular meeting.

"We have also placed a form in water and utility bills asking residents to contact us if they did not receive a census form. This way we can even reach summer residents," she added.

Longo said, "We could get cut out of a lot of federal monies if we are not counted correctly."

"I believe we get something like $4 a person for mutual fire aid, for example," he added.

At Monday's meeting, the board approved a city ordinance which allows the city to charge up to $1,000 against taxes of landowners if they do not clean their lots and the land is declared a "public menace to health and safety."

Prior to the new ordinance, the maximum penalty was $500.

Rappold said a registered letter must be sent to the landowner informing him of the violation, and a public hearing on the matter must be conducted before the city may charge the fine against the landowner's taxes.

"This will allow the landowner 30 to 60 days to clean the land," Rappold told the aldermen.

Board Attorney Lucien Gex said the new ordinance will allow the city to force owners to tear down "dilapidated homes."

In other business Tuesday, the board approved six Department of Housing and Urban Development rehabilitation projects.

One of the six cases involved a widow with three children whose only steady

National Guard, Air Force, Park Service cooperate in Ship Island cannon project

The huge cannon, the last guardian of the Ship Island channel, was about to fall. It was not a siege that threatened it but old age and gravity. The carriage that had faithfully carried its burden for 160 years had become structurally unsound. The cannon is mounted atop Fort Massachusetts on Ship Island, 12 miles south of Gulfport.

The fort was constructed to defend the only natural deep water channel from the Gulf to New Orleans. As part of the fort's intended complement of weapons were a number of 10 inch Rodmans, 100 pounder Parrot Rifles and two 15 inch Rodman Columbiads, all mounted in the fort in 1874.

The 10 inch and 15 inch refers to the inside diameter of the barrel. The fort, never completed or commissioned, was abandoned when it became apparent that the design was obsolete.

The 15 inch Rodman had the capability of firing a 330 to 400 pound cannon ball three miles with a fair amount of accuracy. The weapon was designed to be manned by a trained crew of 12 who could maintain a rate of

Main Street resurfacing to begin within 10 days

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Work on overlay of Main Street between Second and St. Francis Streets should begin within 10 days, according to Donn Murray, representative of the engineering firm of Broadway and Seal.

The Bay Council accepted a bid from Necaise Construction for $18,786 Tuesday for 680 tons of hot bituminous plant mix surface, upon recommendation by Murray.

The other two bidders were Pearl River Paving, $17,000; and Bond Paving, $20,400.

Council members Jim Thriftley and Harry Earve were in favor of accepting the bid with Fred Wagner abstaining.

Wagner on previous occasions was not in favor of the resurfacing of the section of Main Street without first having subsurface drainage installed. He also said the street is now higher than the curbs because of so many overlays.

Murray said the city must complete leveling and filling of some holes before the contractor will start.

The Hancock Board of Supervisors earmarked $15,000 for the project with the Bay footing the balance.

Mayor Larry Bennett recommended that the Council may use revenue sharing monies for the Bay's share of the shelter.

Wagner said that he felt the council should go along with the tri-governmental shelter. It was suggested that Mayor Bennett meet with the

GCRL watching Coastal waters for chemicals

Scientists at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory of Ocean Springs said this week they do not believe contamination from the pentachlorophenol (PCP) spill in Louisiana has spread into Mississippi waters at this time.

The GCRL public information office said that Lab personnel ran tests over the weekend to analyze water, sediment, and oyster tissue samples collected on Friday in areas of the Sound most likely to be affected.

Dr. William Walker, microbiologist in charge of analyzing the samples, said their results showed the presence of extremely low levels of concentrations of PCP residues.

He said those are probably normal background levels resulting from the use of creosote-treated pilings and other construction timbers on the water.

Walker said that GCRL's test results for PCP residue in water samples from the Lake Borgne area showed concentrations of approximately one tenth of one part per billion (0.1 ppb). Sediment concentrations were very low in all locations, the highest being about one half of one part per billion (0.5 ppb). Concentrations found in oyster tissues were about one part per billion (1.0 ppb).

Some of the Lab's results are still preliminary. Samples taken at three stations further east in the Sound-at Cat Island, south of Ship Island, and near Chandeleur Sound had not been analyzed on Monday.

Dr. Harold Howse, Laboratory director, said he was pleased about the low levels found at this time, but, that Lab personnel would continue to monitor the western part of Mississippi Sound to detect PCP contamination. "Our sampling program for PCP in particular will continue indefinitely."

Howse added that if a significant increase in PCP levels is found by the Lab, over these first results, the Laboratory would notify appropriate state authorities.

On Tuesday, Lab personnel again collected water, sediment, and tissue samples from the six stations in the Sound. Some results may be available within 72 hours, making preliminary information available Friday.

Walker said test results from the new samples will determine when additional samples will be taken. "We want to stay on top of this situation so that if the PCP concentration in our water does increase, we'll know right away."

"It (the sampling for PCP) will probably become part of our routine sampling procedures that we use year round to assess the chemistry of Mississippi Sound," Walker added.

"I can't emphasize too strongly to residents of Mississippi that this is a precautionary measure at this time. We want to make the earliest possible detection because in situations of this kind, cleanup efforts are never totally successful," Howse said earlier this week.

Since the PCP spill, Howse said, several members of the senior scientific staff attended technical briefing sessions held last week by state and federal authorities in New Orleans.

If professional singers croon long enough, they usually yearn to write their own music. But Linda Ronstadt appears to be an exception. "Writing is a totally foreign process to me," she admits. "I'm an interpreter." And her string of platinum records is testimony to her interpretive talent — a talent that's at home with rock, country, blues and ballads. Looking to the future, Ronstadt says, "I'm not going to do rock'n roll forever. I want some grace and dignity in my old age. If I continue singing I'll probably settle into the notion of a chanteuse, a cabaret singer, doing something timeless." Pay-TV viewers will rock with Ronstadt this month on HBO's Standing Room Only: Linda Ronstadt in Concert.

Farrah Fawcett (formerly one of Charlie's Angels) came down to earth when she turned thirty a few years back, trading the sexy TV stereotype for more sophisticated roles in film. Since then, she declares, "lots of women have said to me that I've made the over-30's feel good about themselves." And this month, Home Box Office subscribers will see for themselves just how good the ex-Angel feels about herself as she appears in her second feature film, Sunburn. Optimistic Farrah sums it up this way, "If life is this great at 30, the rest is going to be spectacular!"

As Kid Natural in the romantic comedy The Main Event (also on HBO this month) Ryan O'Neal drew on his own experience as a boxer. "I guess I should know my way around a ring," O'Neal says, "I started boxing when I was 10. My dad built a ring for me and my brothers. We fought in YMCA bouts, Golden Gloves, CYO, anything we could." Although he took off his gloves when his acting career began to soar, O'Neal never left the sport entirely. Eventually he became a manager and owner of fighters, including the popular Hedgemon Lewis who, along with boxer Jose Torres, was a technical consultant for The Main Event. In this heavyweight hit, Barbra Streisand is a very different kind of manager — and O'Neal discovers she packs a romantic wallop.

It wasn't easy for Alan Alda to create the script for The Seduction of Joe Tynan (another HBO feature this month). The process took three years, and during that time he experienced many of his hero's agonies and ecstasies. "There's an immense cost for being successful," Alda says. "In the film, Senator Joe Tynan begins to acquire real power. He has a shot at running for President but he's losing his family in the process. He's being pulled in two directions and you really can't serve two masters. It's tough but you have to try to keep control of your life." Alda's intimate knowledge of the screenplay and characters was a big plus. According to co-star Meryl Streep, "He knew exactly what every line should sound like... He really participated and was willing to throw all caution to the wind. He's a very generous person, both as an actor and a writer."

Community development is workshops subject

The community development and financial aspects of small town government-including getting and using federal grants-will be the theme of a series of workshops planned by the Small Towns Development Office of the Mississippi Research and Development Center.

Scheduled to begin August 18 at Mississippi Valley State University and August 20 at the R&D Center, the workshops will be held the third Monday and Wednesday of each month thereafter.

Local government officials, including clerks and tax assessors and collectors, can learn about submitting federal grant applications, consulting services, and financing housing development during the community development portion of the workshops.

A financial management portion will explore the budgeting process, revenue sharing, and general government accounting.

Officials from ten communities recently selected by the Small Towns Development Office to receive special attention during the coming months will be in attendance, but representatives of other small towns in the state also are invited to participate.

D.L. Edwards, Indianola, Ita Bena, Klumichael, Lake, Moorhead, Shaw, Tehula, and Walnut Grove were the towns chosen for the special development program.

Persons interested in attending the workshops should contact J. Wade Allen, Towns Development Office, Mississippi Research and Development Center, Post Office Drawer 2470, Jackson 39205, telephone 601-882-8777.

State veterinarian warns of serious equine disease

"Anyone owning a horse, mule, or other equine animal, should be seriously concerned about a viral disease called Equine Infectious Anemia," says Dr. Harvey F. McCrory, state veterinarian of Mississippi.

Sometimes referred to as swamp fever, or EIA, this is not a new disease. It is one which can, and does, cause huge losses to horse owners in the United States and other countries as well. The acute form of the disease is often fatal. The chronic form is less severe from a fatality standpoint, but still inflicts enough damage to make it a serious problem.

All horses offered for sale at Mississippi auction markets must be accompanied by a record of a negative test for EIA within six months of sale except horses consigned for immediate slaughter or untested horses for other than slaughter will be blood sampled at the market and quarantined to the new owner until test results are received from the state lab. The markets will not be financially reported for any loss related to positive horses.

Federal Regulations: Any reactor to an official test shall be classified as affected with Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA) and shall not be moved interstate unless:

It is officially identified by lip tattoo or neck brand and accompanied by permit;

It is moved interstate for immediate slaughter or to a diagnostic or research facility;

The reactor disclosed on an official test may be moved interstate with approval of state and federal officials of both states.

"The disease can be transmitted from an infected animal to another in a number of ways," McCrory said, "Horseflies and other blood feeding insects are the most common means by which EIA is spread. But bridles, saddles, harnesses, and other tack used on an infected animal can transmit the disease to another. Semen from an infected stallion can infect mares in breeding."

One of the greatest problems with EIA is that once an animal becomes infected there is no cure. Neither is there a preventive vaccine nor any effective treatment. There are, however, some methods by which the disease can be prevented through careful handling and reducing exposure from the different means of transmittal.

"The first move that all horse owners should make is to have all of the animals tested to determine if they are infected with EIA. This includes horses, mules, donkeys, jacks, or any type of equine animal," McCrory explained.

The Coggins test is the most dependable means of diagnosing EIA. The test involves drawing a blood sample and having it analyzed by an approved laboratory. If the test results are positive, it means the animal is a reactor and has the disease. It also means the animal will be a carrier of EIA as long as it lives.

McCrory emphasized that, "Whether a person owns work animals, pleasure horses, or a breeding operation, he will surely want to give the Coggins test and follow every regulation and recommendation to try and prevent the spread of EIA."

Rules and regulations, both state and federal, which apply to EIA, are presented here as information to persons owning equine animals. State regulations are:

Horses moving into the State of Mississippi for any purpose other than slaughter or research must be accompanied by a record of a negative test for EIA conducted within the past six months. A copy of the laboratory report must accompany the health certificate;

Horses moving within the state to fairs, livestock shows, sales or other concentration points must be accompanied by a record of a negative test within the past six months. Horses reacting to the Coggins test within the state will be identified by regulatory personnel by a freeze brand on the neck. Positive horses will be re-bled upon request by the owner's private veterinarian or state personnel and samples then submitted to the laboratory for confirmation;

Turkey-ham ruled mis-leading label

The United States District Court for eastern Virginia has ordered the U.S. Department of Agriculture to stop approving labels that use the term 'turkey-ham' for products consisting of 100 percent poultry meat.

"The court concluded that the label is misleading to a substantial number of consumers," says Dr. Michael Jones, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

The decision is a victory for the pork industry which filed a suit last fall after the USDA ruled that the term turkey-ham could be used if accompanied by the statement "from cured turkey thigh meat."

The several trade associations and pork processing firms which brought the suit to court claimed that consumers associated the word ham with the common pork product that comes from the hind legs of a hog, Dr. Jones says.

Attorneys representing the pork industry also raised the question of whether turkeys have hind legs and said the product labeled "turkey-ham" should be labeled an imitation, he adds.

Bits 'n pieces

Shoplifting is on the increase, according to local merchants. More store managers are now following through after arrests are made. Far too much merchandise is lost each year through shoplifting.

We all should realize that each of us who make purchases pay a certain part of the cost of shoplifting.

We are glad that our judges see fit to give deserved sentences for those proven guilty of the crime of shoplifting.

We have to commend the managers of the stores who go to court and prosecute shoplifters.

We would like to mention to those of you who haven't been contacted as yet by someone for membership by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce to give them a call.

Volunteers on Dick Kosbab's membership committee for the Chamber membership drive have been trying to visit every merchant this week. There is always the possibility of someone not being at his or her establishment when the volunteer calls and some could be missed.

So if you haven't been contacted as yet give the Chamber a call at 467-9048. They will send someone down to solicit your membership.

The recent discovery of a road completely destroyed in Shoreline Park by some children with oldest being 11 makes us wonder as to what will these kids do when they are older.

We know we have mentioned this before, but, if you see something out of the ordinary going on in your neighborhood, please give police a call.

The amount of damage done to the road in Shoreline Park had to take some time in doing. We have a feeling several persons must have seen the children banging up the street.

The damage amounted to about a 10 foot strip across the road which does not seem like much, but it is estimated to cost over $1,000 to be repaired.

The cooperation of citizens is appreciated by our sheriff and two police departments. We as citizens can help them by reporting incidents. Remember, you do not have to give your name.

Schools in the area will open in two weeks and one can sure tell by the looks on the faces of the children and parents.

The smiles are beginning to appear on the faces of parents and are disappearing on the children.

There have been so many summer activities for children this year in our communities.

Things such as baseball, tee ball, swimming, art, scouting activities, reading classes and we could go on and on.

It is very good so many things are available for our children, even though some parents are worn out by bringing junior here for this and sister there for that.

Activities for our youth during the summer (even through the whole year) make Hancock County one of the best places to raise a family.

We should all be proud of being citizens of this fine county.

Senator Cochran reports

Senator Thad Cochran is sponsoring legislation to help stimulate additional capital investment and create new job opportunities in the nation.

"With sentiment building for passage of tax-cut legislation this year," Senator Cochran remarked, "we have an excellent chance to reform our capital gains laws in a manner highly favorable to encouraging new capital formation."

He is co-sponsoring S2983, the Venture and Equity Capital Revitalization Act of 1980, to raise the federal tax exemption on capital gains income from 60 percent to 75 percent.

The Senator said that Treasury Department and private economists report that reforms in the capital gains law several years ago had a "positive effect in generating a surge of new investments."

He said the "favorable response to the 1978 capital gains tax reduction justifies continued revisions in this law to generate new economic growth in the future."

Equity capital jumped 63 percent in 1978 following passage of legislation raising the capital gains exemption to 60 percent, and continued to rise last year.

The impact was particularly favorable, experts reported, in the venture capital market where small, high technology firms experience rapid growth in sales and employment if successful.

News from the governor's office

Mississippi must increase access to vocational education opportunities to compete with neighboring states in attracting industry. Governor William Winter said in Starkville recently.

Winter, speaking to the second annual Mississippi Vocational Education Conference said industries considering locating plants in the state are concerned about the skills of the state labor force.

"We are confronted with an economic situation which demands the highest level of skill of everyone in the work force," Winter told participants in the Conference. "The availability of the skilled labor and training facilities is where we will be competitive," he said.

Winter said Mississippi must have "facilities that will enable our workers to be trained as well as workers in any area of the country."

"I am committed to use all the resources within the governor's office to see that we maintain and improve a vocational education program that will enable our workers to compete with those anywhere," Winter said. "We must be able to tell industry that we will turn out skilled labor, on their timetables."

Winter said the state must move rapidly in upgrading vocational education programs. "We cannot afford to be complacent about the pace at which we move," he said, "because everyone else is moving too. We still have some catching up to do."

LETTERS To The Editor

Another citizen expresses concern over hospital situation

Letter to the editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

In the past several weeks I have been shocked to read the information in the Sea Coast Echo concerning what is happening to our Hancock General Hospital.

First that someone wanted to buy the facility, or build a new one, then the loss of accreditation, followed by the departure of the doctors.

What concerns the hospital concerns the people of Hancock County, because it is our hospital.

Are we going to leave the awesome responsibility for saving it to the five good men who serve on the Board of Supervisors, or the Board of Directors of the hospital?

How can we be complacent or disinterested when so much is involved?

We worked together to obtain the hospital 20 years ago, and much has been done to upgrade and maintain the facility.

It has grown and expanded its services, and it has filled and is still filling a tremendous need in the community.

If Hancock General needs a face lifting to regain its accreditation, could we not all pull together and give our help?

Few of us are rich, but we could give according to our means.

Let it not be said that we lost our wonderful little hospital because we did not care enough to preserve and save it.

Mrs. C.R. Beyer
Bay St. Louis
A concerned citizen.

Sadat proves to be 'A friend in need'

July 30, 1980

Letters to the Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

If I were given a chance to vote for the man in public office I most admired this week, my vote would go without reservation to president Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

In giving a home to the late Shah of Iran, Mr. Sadat showed he was a man of courage and had a deep sympathy for a homeless fellow politician.

Not only that, Mr. Sadat has proven he is a politician who has remembered a friend.

As they say in the Bible, "A Friend loveth at all times." Proverbs 17:17.

Respectfully

HOUSING AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

The stock of housing in the United States has nearly doubled in the past 30 years as Americans earned the reputation as the best housed people in the world.

Private industry is responsible for this remarkable situation in which substantial housing units have fallen from 35.5 percent of the total housing stock to less than five percent. America's homebuilders have done their job well, but now face a dismal future.

Since 1937, the federal government has been involved in providing housing for low and moderate income families and, hopefully, some additional help will be on the way soon.

When the House returns from its August district work period later this month, one of the first items on the agenda is the Housing and Community Development Act of 1980.

To be sure, the homebuilding industry has been hard hit by the harsh economic times. Housing starts, after all, have been one of the major indicators of the health of the American economy.

New construction has plummeted with the advent of high interest rates and troubled economic times. The biggest problem in the housing field is cost, a particularly acute problem for the poor.

Approximately 71 percent of households with incomes less than $3,000 spend more than 35 percent of that income for rent. About 62 percent of renters in $35,000 and up income brackets spend less than 10 percent of their incomes on housing.

Major housing programs would be extended under terms of the legislation. The programs include the following:

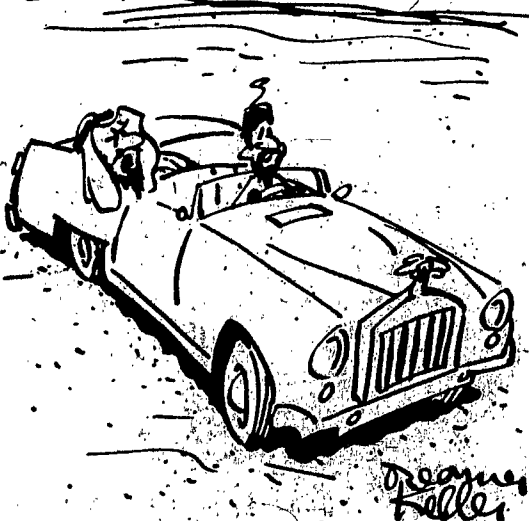

- Community Development Block Grants Created by the House and Community Development Act of 1974, the block grant program combined 10 old categorical urban development programs in a single grant. Funds are distributed to states, cities, counties and other local government units according to a needs formula;

- Urban Development Action Grants - Launched in 1977, this program provides communities with "up front" money to initiate economic development action and stimulate private investment. H.U.D. says the program has proven to be cost effective in producing and preserving jobs.

- Urban Development Action Grants - Launched in 1977, this program provides communities with "up front" money to initiate economic development action and stimulate private investment. H.U.D. says the program has proven to be cost effective in producing and preserving jobs.

Other programs would also be extended, including the Section 235 Homeownership Assistance Program, the Leased Housing Program and the Section 236 program.

My belief is that the federal government can be helpful in some ways in getting the housing industry back on its feet. Homebuilding is a crucial part of the American economic system.

"What do you mean, we're out of gas?"

White House offers rural water system assistance

The Agriculture Department has signed a contract with the National Rural Water Association (NRWA) to provide assistance to rural water systems in 25 selected states, including Mississippi.

This program will help to meet the goals of the President's rural policy, which is designed to increase the effectiveness of federal programs in rural areas.

Under this one-year, $300,000 contract, NRWA "circulator riders" will help small water systems, which often do not have professional staff, to improve the quality of their drinking water and expand water supply.

Any rural water system in the 25 selected states can request assistance under this contract.

The Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA) and the NRWA will establish priorities among the requests based on serving the most needy communities first.

FmHA is a credit arm of the Department of Agriculture, which has financed nearly 30,000 rural water and waste disposal systems.

The President's Small Community and Rural Development Policy, announced last December, emphasizes improved technical and management capacity at the local level, increased access to federal programs, recognition of diverse rural circumstances and needs, and improved coordination among federal agencies.

The Administration is working to streamline federal programs assisting rural water and sewer systems, to ensure that appropriate, cost-effective technologies are used.

and to train 900 disadvantaged persons and place them in jobs with rural water systems.

Minority 'skill bank' established

A register of black men and women available for employment in the state's business and industrial community has been compiled and organized by the Mississippi Research and Development Center in Jackson.

The "Mississippi Minority Skills Bank" was developed by the R & D Center's Office for Black Economic Development (OBED) to help match skilled minority applicants with appropriate job openings within the state.

"Mississippi is still last among all the states in black median family income," said Les Range, manager of OBED. "Although the percentage of black families earning over $15,000 increased from 1.5 percent in 1969 to 8.3 percent in 1975, Mississippi's black families comprised less than 3 percent of the total in this higher income bracket in 1975," Range noted.

The "Skills Bank" is designed to provide job information that helps blacks move into higher paying positions.

Registrants listed in the "Skills Bank" are classified by their experience or specialty, according to Range. For example, current listings include hospital administrator, maintenance engineer, grant writer, television producer, inventory control clerk, and others.

Employers who wish to use the service should write the "Skills Bank" and include the title of the position for which they are recruiting, a description of duties, the salary range, education requirements, closing date for job applications, and other pertinent information.

For more information write "Minority Skills Bank," Office for Black Economic Development, Mississippi Research and Development Center, Post Office Drawer 2470, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

Garden contest slated

May the best Mississippi green thumb win. The deadline for this year's "Victory Garden Contest," sponsored by WGBH-TV, is August 31. All entries must be postmarked by midnight that day. No, you don't have to wrap up your vegetable garden in brown paper and mail it off to Boston. What you must do, however, is submit a color picture (slide or print, no larger than five by seven inches) of your vegetable garden; a diagram of the garden; and a list of the crops grown to: "Contest," Box 298, Boston, MA 02134. Quality counts. It doesn't matter if your garden is large or small. Judges will be looking for the best amateur gardener in the U.S., and the winner will be selected from among six finalists, each of whom will be visited by host Bob Thomson and "The Victory Garden" camera crew. If your plot is the most picture-perfect, you'll be invited to come to Boston to accept "The Victory Garden" award, show your winning work on nationwide television and even give Bob a tip or two. Interested gardeners are encouraged to enter now. Last year's contest handled 2,000 entries from 40 states. The "Victory Garden Contest" is open to all amateur gardeners. Professional-commercial growers are not eligible. Materials submitted to WGBH-TV, the program's producer, become the property of WGBH and are not returnable.

Low salinities harmful to 1980 shrimp harvest

The Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources, in its current newsletter, reports 1980 shrimp landings are presently down seven percent from last year, and down 53 percent from the record year of 1977.

The mean salinities in Mississippi Sound during the critical months of April and May were 1.2 parts per thousand in 1979 and 4.6 percent for those months in 1980.

Optimum salinity in Mississippi Sound during April and May is more than 15 percent, the bureau pointed out.

"These low salinities coupled with the influence of Hurricane Frederic are the most probable causes for the decline in landings," the bureau reported.

Also in connection with fresh water intrusion in the Sound, BMR recently completed a 10 month project involving the planting of 87,000 cubic yards of clamshell to provide suitable oyster-growing water bottoms in areas where heavy Spring, 1979 floodwaters nearly destroyed the natural reefs.

Since these areas must remain undisturbed for oysters to become established, it is unlawful to trawl or fish in these areas with other than crab traps or hook and line.

The planted areas are marked on each corner with white PVC pipe, the top of which is painted fluorescent international orange.

One such marked reef has been established just off the Uman-Avenue Pier in Bay St. Louis.

The Sea Coast Echo

Area pugilists begin fall training Monday

By RICH ADAMS

Sports Editor

Fall training for the Bay-Kiln-Waveland Boxing Club will begin Monday at the Disabled American Veterans Hall in Bay St. Louis, according to Head Coach John Whisenhunt.

The first match of the year will be conducted Sept. 6 at the Ocean Springs Boxing Club, he added.

The Bay-Kiln-Waveland Club is presently in the process of constructing its own ring, and is looking for plywood donations for the floor.

"We are cutting some corners on costs. Our cost will be about $1,500 whereas a factory-built ring would run about $5,000," Whisenhunt said.

"We need donations of plywood for the flooring," he noted.

Whisenhunt is attempting to have Hancock County residents certified as judges and referees, noting that the local officials could save the club money.

"The new boxing commissioner, Fred Williams of the Ocean Springs Boxing Club, will be here to certify judges and referees. This could save us a lot of money as we have to pay travel for officials from out of town," Whisenhunt commented.

"Also, for the first time ever, the local Gulf Coast clubs have formed a coach's association to prepare a joint set of rules and admission price," he continued.

"We have set $2.50 as admission price, and coach's wives will have to pay admission now," he added.

MERCURY OUTDOOR CONSULTANT

For many vacationers, the opportunity to fish in a different location will be one of the reasons they travel.

For others, fishing may not be a major attraction, yet they would like to participate if they could.

Here are some tips from Mercury outboards' angling department which will enable you to take along some tackle, and have time to fish when you arrive.

1. Write for information about the type of fishing available. Don't fish for everything. Limit angling to one or two species.

2. Inquire about boat and motor rentals. A boat improves your chances of catching fish.

3. Be selective with tackle. Take only what is needed for the type of fishing you'll do. Plan on buying some local lures.

VACATION FISH TIPS

4. Pack tackle carefully. Protect rods with a stout case, or take along multi-piece travel rods.

5. Plan to allow time for fishing. Keep your schedule flexible to take advantage of local conditions.

6. Encourage your family to fish, also. They'll enjoy it. If they don't fish, plan something for them while you do.

7. Talk to local anglers. Often, one will invite you to join him. At the least, you'll learn what lures to use, and perhaps where to go for best action.

8. Consider a guide, especially if time is limited.

9. Put back what you catch. Without a way to preserve your catch for later table use, don't waste the fish.

10. Take photographs. When you return home, no one will believe the size of your catch if you don't have proof!

fire of about one round every 70 seconds.

None of the 15 inch Rodmans produced were ever fired at an enemy vessel.

All but one of the cannon were destroyed prior to World War I by a scrap metal dealer who decided that the obsolete weapons could be of value to him.

The carriages and chassis came apart easily, and the barrels were broken up into more manageable pieces by using explosives.

The remaining 15 inch Rodman was spared, owing its continued existence to the efforts of a concerned citizen group called Save The Fort.

Time, corrosion and souvenir hunters began to take a serious toll on this well known coastal sight. As bolts corroded out, some helped on their way by unconcerned visitors, the stability of the carriage and chassis supporting the 50,000 pound barrel became endangered.

In 1971 historic Fort Massachusetts and Ship Island, along with Horn and Petit Bois Islands, came under the administration and jurisdiction of Gulf Islands National Seashore, a part of the National Park System.

Park management soon became concerned with the deterioration of the Rodman. Last year it was discovered that the side plates of the upper carriage had buckled under the weight of the tube causing it to list to one side.

A hoist was placed around the gun to carry the weight of the heavy barrel but that was only a temporary measure. Something needed to be done to stabilize the supporting carriage and chassis.

In a unique demonstration of interagency cooperation the needed stabilization is now in progress. Through the combined efforts of Gulf Islands National Seashore, Keeler Air Force Base and the Mississippi Army National Guard, the carriage and chassis are about to undergo extensive testing, cleaning and repair so that they may again safely carry the weight of the tube.

The 2348th Transportation Company, Heavy Helicopter, of the Mississippi Army National Guard, coordinated through Col. John M. Coleman (State Aviation Officer for the Adjutant General's Office in Jackson) had the task of bringing the parts to be repaired to the mainland Saturday.

This was no easy task as the carriage and chassis were on the upper level of the fort and could not be further disassembled on site because of their condition.

The combined weight of the parts needing to be moved was about 18,000 pounds. To accomplish the mission large helicopters called CH-54 skycranes were used.

The 3380th Field Maintenance Squadron, under Col. John Mitchell, typically handles the airframe repairs required on the C-130 aircraft stationed at Keeler.

Although the men within the squadron are experts in working with aircraft, their abilities are not limited there.

All of them have taken an in-depth interest in their specialty fields and are well qualified to assist in the stabilization process.

The shops that are likely to be the most involved are the welding shop, corrosion control, non-destructive investigation, and the machine shop.

The required work will take no longer than six months so that the 15 inch Rodman Columbiad soon will be again in its original position atop Fort Massachusetts without the need of the supporting hoist.

supervisors and Waveland officials and report back to the council on the animal shelter matter.

The proposal calls for the three governmental agencies to put up a total of $15,000, ($5,000 each) for the animal shelter.

The current animal shelter which is supported by both Bay St. Louis and Waveland is on private property and the owners had given an August 31 deadline to vacate.

Bennett said that the owner, Alcan Cable, has given an extension and would work with the group.

A site has to be selected for the new animal shelter and the Humane Society now needs the County's support before further planning can progress.

Council was unanimous in accepting Bill Hilliker to the board of Gulf Coast Waste Water Commission. He was recommended by Mayor Bennett as the Bay St. Louis representative.

Council emphasized that this was not a commitment to join the tri-county waste water management because they may join Waveland and Hancock County.

Mayor Bennett and the Council were all in favor of not committing themselves. Wagner commented, "We are not ready to go along with anyone, we want to keep the door open."

City Clerk Kelly McQueen presented a budget outline to the Council and Mayor.

"McQueen said, "It is a starting point for the officials when they start the hearings with the department heads on August 18."

A lengthy discussion was held by the Council on issuance of a privilege license which they had done at a previous meeting but was not in their power to do so.

Mayor Bennett said he has the authority to issue the privilege licenses. The license is one for the location of the Star Theatre to be changed to a convenience store.

The current business comes under the 'grandfather clause' and is in a residential area.

Board Attorney Joseph Gex was not present at the meeting and the matter was talked about being a misunderstanding from the beginning, according to McQueen.

In matters related to zoning, McQueen submitted a recommendation of an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would possibly clarify some questions on changes in zoning on a one business type.

The amendment was to be reviewed by the attorney and council members.

Charles Hirstius, spokesman for the Spanish Acres Subdivision, thanked the City fathers for the beautification, sewer repairs, ditch cleanup saying they have been doing and are doing a fine job.

The spokesman also stated the temporary exit used during the sewer repairs 'worked well.'

"We would like to see a permanent exit which could be used during times of an emergency," Hirstius commented.

He asked the council if there were any plans for the resurfacing of the streets in the subdivision and also reported a small sewer break on Elena Street needing repair.

A discussion was held on the dump next to the subdivision and as to what was going to be done with it.

It was mentioned that the owner 'inherited the problem' which was made by someone else.

Council accepted the docket for the previous month with the exception of one item which was held for further study.

The bill for 20 gallons of deodorizer for $404 was to be checked by Bill Johnson, superintendent.

The meeting was chaired by Harry Farve in the absence of Pete Benvenuti, president.

VFW Ladies conduct workshop

By NORMA BONNEY

VFW Publicist

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, Department of Mississippi conducted a school of instruction and council of Administration meeting July 20 in Jackson.

The meetings were held at the Tule K. Stapleton VFW Post Home under the leadership of President Patricia Blakeney of Long Beach.

Mrs. Blakeney's special project for the coming year will be aid to retardation centers throughout Mississippi.

Fourteen continuous programs are stressed each year by the national and state organization.

Each chairman outlined her program for the coming year stressing the need for an increase in membership, manpower, man-hours services and donations.

Memberships chairman, Janice White of Vancleave, noted the national organization has over 628,000 continuous members, having increased each year for the past 24 years this making the V.F.W. Auxiliary one of the greatest volunteer organizations in existence.

Mississippi has a membership of over 6,000 members and will be reached for an increase of 10 percent by June 1981.

Community activities chairman, Edna Earle Shull of Clarksdale was unable to attend due to illness. Her chairmanship is one that serves others, outside of the organization, and encompasses many aspects of living-pride in the community, health, safety, environmental aid to churches and schools, youth, americanism-in action and a willingness to aid other individuals with open hearts and helping hands.

V.F.W. National Home chairman, Dorothy Parker of Waynesboro, asked all members to remember our orphaned children at the home through their letters and contributions. Remembering the children in the home on all special occasions is truly a way of encouragement.

Americanism chairman, Helen Norbury of Jackson noted there are still many MIA-POW not yet accounted for and a petition is being circulated requesting the people-if SRV to release all information on Americans missing and to return any American remains which are in their possession or may subsequently be found. This request for humanitarian cooperation would end years of uncertainty for American POW-MIA families and could provide a basis for increased friendship between our two countries.

Hospital chairman, Vila Mae Sims of Grenada asked for more hospital volunteers for 1981 stating a hospital bed is the loneliest place in the world.

Over 2,700 Mississippians volunteered over 23,000 hours visiting the patients this past year. Over 11,800 hours were spent preparing items to be taken to the hospitalized patients.

$11,904.93 has been contributed this far for the special bus fund, a State V.F.W. Auxiliary V.A. This is a continuing project-until enough funds have been raised to purchase the bus. The bus project originated with the V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary but other veterans organizations are assisting with the project.

Legislative chairman, Bobbie Howell of Corinth asked all members keep on top of current events and be ready to assist in any way to get the proper legislation passed which will benefit veterans and their families.

Another reminder was to get out and vote in the November election and to initiate programs to help others to get to the polling places.

PAC Chairman, Joyce Smith of Grenada said the political action committee will be scrutinizing all representatives and congressmen by checking their voting records, lending support to those who favor veterans benefits and a strong national defense.

Cancer aid and research chairman, Marie James of Clinton, noted Mississippi had contributed over $28,000.00 to the program during 1979-80. She asked for an increase of donations for the coming year hoping there will be a breakthrough in the cure of cancer soon. A V.F.W. Auxiliary cookbook will be sold with the proceeds going to the cancer aid and research program.

The cookbook will contain all the favorite recipes of the membership throughout the state.

Safety chairman, Lorene Sweanpoel of Stringer, stated the national organization request the same four safety programs be emphasized: Light-a-bike, drive-to-survive, drug abuse and recognition of our police, firemen and other personnel aiding in making our cities safer places to live.

Youth activities chairman, Hilda Rinewalt of Jackson stressed the need to put more programs into the schools. The young American patriotic creative art and the voice of democracy programs are two sponsored by the V.F.W. and Auxiliary each year. These programs give the children an avenue to express their views on their country. Last year there were over 394 youth programs sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary throughout the state.

'Reasonable assurance'

Beach Road funds available in Oct.

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday received "reasonable assurance" from U.S. Representative Trent Lott's office that the county will receive funds in October to repair storm-damaged Beach Boulevard.

Also at Monday's meeting, county engineer Larry Seal of Piquette requested reimbursement of $15,000 expenses incurred while preparing plans for the Beach Boulevard project. (Chancery Court Clerk) Mike Necaise's office contacted Cecil Dubisson of Trent Lott's office. Dubisson said the county missed receiving some of the $2 million regional appropriations in August.

Board Attorney Walter Gex reported, "There will be more money appropriated in October, and Dubisson gave us reasonable assurance that we will receive some funds then, if we put all our ducks in a row," he continued.

"By all our ducks I refer to the PS&E plans for the road, which must be submitted by Oct. 1," Gex added. Seal reported the money will not be appropriated until late October.

In requesting reimbursement of funds he has spent on planning, Seal said, "I have a lot of money tied up in these plans, but the board tells me it does not have any money to fund the plans."

"I cannot finance the entire project from my own pocket," he added.

Seal said he has shut down field crews from the project for the time being, but added the plans will be ready to submit to the state by Oct. 1.

"There is no need for me to jump in and get the plans done. My idea is to start now, and that will allow me plenty of time to have the plans by Oct. 1," he said.

"I cannot afford to carry the cost of this project on my own," Seal emphasized. "I am not complaining. If you do not reimburse me the $15,000, I will still complete the plans," he added.

District Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro moved to reimburse the $15,000, which was approved unanimously by the board.

Also at Monday's meeting, the board approved Perry Gibson as its district commissioner on the Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Commission.

Board President Alton A. (Dolph) Keller said he has been receiving pressure to name a regional commissioner to the wastewater commission.

The board also hired Darlene Underwood as new County Extension Home Economist.

Underwood, a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi with a master's degree in clothing and textile, will begin her new position Aug. 18.

The county will contribute $3,000 a year for her salary.

In other business, the board opened bids for resurfacing of Keller Street, Washington Street, and Sycamore Street.

The board accepted a low bid from Necaise Construction Company of Long Beach which bid $12,831 on the Keller Street project, $10,857 on the Sycamore Street job, and $24,181 on the Washington Street task, for a total of $47,869.

Other bids received were from Bond Paving Company of Gulfport, which bid a total of $60,091; and Pearl River Paving Company, which asked $50,925 for the project.

Also Monday, Chancery Court Clerk E. Michael Necaise reported that air conditioners at the County Home for the Aged are not working correctly, despite a new compressor recently installed.

District One Supervisor Bert Courge suggested a maintenance firm be contacted to see if cleaning the coils may rectify the situation.

In other business, the board took no action on a recommendation to install a Wang computer in the Chancery Court clerk's office.

A bid was received from Data Processing of Hattiesburg for $29,650, and the other bids did not meet specifications.

Perniciaro said the county should wait until the Tax Collector's office is prepared to go computer before any money is spent.

The board recessed until Monday at 9 a.m.

Supervisor questions firm's hiring policies

By RICH ADAMS

The personnel manager of a construction company building the Port Blenville Borg-Warner Plant in Hancock County Monday denied accusations that his firm has refused local residents jobs on that project.

District One Supervisor Bert Courge earlier Monday said he has been approached by some of his constituents who claim they were not even allowed inside the project gates to fill out applications for employment.

Courge moved that the supervisors discuss the matter with Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Executive Director Wilson Wehre, requesting Wehre to look into the matter.

"We understand the contractors are bringing in out-of-town workers, specifically from Texas, instead of hiring local workers," Courge told the supervisors Monday.

Roland Jasman, personnel manager for UMC Construction Company, said Monday afternoon the accusations are not true.

Jasman balked when asked for a breakdown in proportion between local workers and out-of-town employees. "I do not have a breakdown available at this time. I don't believe I would prepare (a breakdown) as we are an independent contractor," he stated.

"We always hire local employees. Nobody has been turned away," Jasman added.

"We do bring in our key employees. All major companies do that," he commented.

Jasman said UMC is a division of Jacobs Engineering Groups, with major offices in Pasadena, California and Houston, Texas.

"We do hire local people, but I would have no guess as to the percentage of the total work force," he stated.

In other business Monday, the president of an independent appraisal mapping company estimated costs to map Hancock County at half a million dollars.

Roland Robinson recommended the board conduct an in-house mapping of the county with his company as a consultant in order to comply with State Bill 2672, which calls for compulsory equalization of property assessment.

"There are two ways to complete mapping for reassessment. First, you can let bids and obtain the services of an independent mapping company. This could run you from $50,000 to $300,000," Robinson said.

"This would cover the costs of deed research and aerial photography of some 50,000 parcels of land in Hancock County," he continued.

"Secondly, you could save 20 to 25 percent of this cost by conducting an in-house mapping project. Most people you have now do not have the technical expertise to do this properly and would need professional guidance," he told the supervisors.

Robinson said the project, which will involve some 500 or 600 individual maps, will take three years to complete.

"My payment would be $24,000 each year," Robinson said.

The county would have to hire extra people to work in the tax assessor's office during the mapping phase, and Robinson estimated a "ballpark figure" of $500,000 for the total project, including his consultant fees.

Board President Alton A. (Dolph) Keller said the board will discuss the proposal with Tax Assessor Edward (Eddie) Murtagh and took the proposal under advisement.

Also Monday, the board opened bids on road resurfacing and a radio for Coroner Carl Bandaret.

Electrocom Corporation of New Orleans, La., submitted a bid of $1,007

for a Regency 100-watt transceiver.

Motrola of Jackson submitted a state contract bid of $1,924 for a Motorola 100-watt transceiver.

Bandaret suggested the board accept the higher bid, claiming, "There is no comparison. You are throwing away your money with the Regency."

Keller said the board could not accept the higher bid because the lower bid met specifications.

District Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro moved the board accept the bid of Electrocom, which was unanimously approved by the board.

School board eyes inadequate leases

By RICH ADAMS

Hancock County School Board Member Louie Ladner Monday night recommended the board review 16th Section land leases and renegotiate those deemed to be inadequate.

Ladner reported that the assistant attorney general discussed the issue with him during a 16th Section seminar conducted recently, noting that the board is legally tasked with renegotiating any inadequate leases.

"I was made aware of two laws, one describing the board's duties, and another saying we are open for a lawsuit unless we comply with our duties," Ladner told the board.

"If we have a lease which is inadequate, anybody may file a suit against us, and it is our duty to file a suit against anybody failing to renegotiate an inadequate lease," he continued.

"I move the board take actions to inspect our 16th Section land for inadequacies. I want to clear myself according to the law," he added.

Board President Woodrow Ladner suggested 16th Section Land Consultant Terrell Randolph report inadequacies to the board, but Board Member Monvel Cuevas said that determinations should be made by the school board.

"We cannot put that responsibility on (Randolph's) back. It is our duty to decide what is an inadequate lease," Cuevas said.

Woodrow Ladner said the State Department of Education in Jackson is now examining all 16th Section land leases and suggested the board make its own examination next meeting.

Louie Ladner moved that the board obtain a copy of all 16th Section leases from Randolph, including a separate list of leases Randolph considers inadequate.

In other business Monday, the board rejected four bids for repair of a grease trap, gas line, and installation of sewer line at Hancock North Central.

Cuevas moved for the rejection because the board had made an error in advertising for the bids.

"We should have asked for an alternate bid on the grease trap and received a breakdown in price,"

Cuevas told the board.

All four bids were for the total of the three projects.

Omega of Waveland bid $9,700 and said the project would be completed in 40 working days; K and K Plumbing of Bay St. Louis bid $11,500 to do the job in 12 working days; Weaver and Sons of Gulfport bid $12,460 to complete the project in 30 working days; and Coast Maintenance of Gulfport bid $14,451 to complete the job in 30 days.

Cuevas moved the projects be re-advertised to replace the sewer lines with alternate bids on the gas pipes and grease trap.

The board also accepted bids on milk products, receiving quotations from Borden's, Dairy Fresh, and Brown's Velvet.

The board accepted the low bid on milk and milkshake products from Dairy Fresh and ice cream from Borden's.

Only one bid for cereal was received, but the board rejected the bid from Merchant's Company of Gulfport.

Merchants' bid offered 300 cases of cereal, 50 boxes per case, for $3,957.

"We have to re-advertise. If we don't, we will have 300 cases of cereal on our hands. We cannot use that much in one year," Woodrow Ladner said.

The board also received bids on consumable garbage at Gulfview, Charles B. Murphy, and Hancock North Central.

Two bids were received for garbage at Gulfview, one from Ernest C. Ladner Jr. for $20.50 a month, and one from Tommy Ladner for $18.50 a month.

The board accepted Ernest C. Ladner's bid.

The board also accepted a bid of $20 from Leal Dedaux for garbage at Hancock North Central and a bid of $18.50 a month from Oscar Brand for consumable garbage at Charles B. Murphy.

In other business Monday, the board:

—Held in abeyance a letter of resignation from Suzanne D. Buckley, an art teacher at HNC, until a suitable replacement can be found;

—Employed Vivan D. Holyfield as a junior high school English teacher;

—Employed Karen Cayot as learning disability teacher at Charles B. Murphy;

—Employed Nancy Jean Carson as elementary librarian at Charles B. Murphy;

—Employed Christine Smith as study hall monitor at HNC;

—Employed Curtiss Holyfield as seventh- and eighth-grade social studies teacher at Gulfview;

—Released Susan Michelle Dean, Robert Allen Gustin, Karen and Cachanda Terrell, William and Susan Fricks, and Mary Helen Moran from the district to attend Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate District schools.

The $350,000 loan request was based on a $60 million assessment of all property in Hancock County. It was later discovered the school district can borrow against only $31 million of the total assessed value.

The remainder of the $61 assessed value supports borrowing power of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District.

Supervisors President Alton A. (Dolph) Keller penciled in the appropriate changes and the resolution was passed by the board.

District Four Supervisor James Travira voted against the measure.

Lott visits NSTL

U.S. Congressman Trent Lott visited the National Space and Technology Laboratories in Hancock County Monday for a briefing and tour of the installation.

Lott was briefed by Jerry Hiss, NSTL manager, on current activities underway at the installation. The congressman then met with heads of agencies located at NSTL.

Lott also visited the Navy element, Mississippi Ammunition Plant and Space Shuttle complex. He was given a briefing on the space shuttle main engine testing program by Rockwell, NASA and Rocketdyne officials.

He was hosted at the complex by Bob Bush, main propulsion test program resident manager from Marshall Space Flight Center.

At the conclusion of his visit, Lott said: "I've been to NSTL several times before in the past and I am very impressed with the expansions that are occurring. I think we have got a fantastic facility here."

"Items such as pillows, blankets, and other bedding should also be brought to the shelters," she continued.

"No animals, alcoholic beverages, or firearms are allowed in the shelters," she added.

"Parents with small children should also bring small toys and games to occupy their children during the storm," Gallegos said.

Gallegos said other shelters may be opened if needed. For more information call 467-4071 or 467-2178.

Earlier this week winds of Hurricane Allen were clocked at 200 miles per hour with a barometric pressure of 911 millibars, lower than that of Hurricane Camille when it hit the Gulf Coast in August of 1969.

The barometric pressure read 28.23 or 956 millibars at 8 a.m. Wednesday, according to the Mobile weather service.

Weather experts estimate that if the storm reaches the Gulf Coast, it will not do so until Sunday or Monday.

Also in her letter, Schultz contends, "Most important of all, no one seems to care about the patients. Oh yes, they say they do, but if they truly did, why do they allow this to continue?"

"Ask the doctors, that is where you will at last receive an honest answer," she said to the supervisor in her letter.

"One voice...cannot overcome a very serious problem. Four others support him for various and flimsy reasons," Schultz concludes.

income is $300 a month social security benefits.

Rehabilitation Director Larry Burns added, however, that the woman cleans a home for $15 a week, thus making her income higher than allowed by HUD. Burns noted that the $15 a week is not a "permanent income."

"This is a situation we have not run into this far, and I want to know if you will accept this as a non-permanent income case," Burns said.

Longo said the board could accept the case "as long as we give the same consideration to other cases such as this in the future."

In other business, Longo named his wife Jean as his appointee to the Gulf Coast Regional Waste Water Commission, noting that the job is a non-paying volunteer position and cannot be considered nepotism.

"Jean is highly qualified in the scientific field and I highly recommend her for this position," the mayor said.

The aldermen unanimously approved the appointment.

Also Tuesday, the board took under advisement four bids on a five-ton air conditioning system for the Waveland Police Department.

The bids received were: Clifford P. Vogt, $2,424; Marvin Lacoste, $2,888; Ronnie Fletcher, $2,650; and Elvin Carver, $2,115.

Alderman Jack Toomey told the board to be careful to get copper coils instead of aluminum coils, stating copper coils would last longer.

The aldermen also issued a proclamation declaring Oct. 4 and 5 as "Halloween and Alcoholism Day," which is sponsored by the Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse for Greater New Orleans.

The board adjourned until Aug. 19, but will conduct an informal budget workshop Aug. 18 and 20 in the board room.

Save money through comparative shopping

MONEY TALK
By NORINE BARNES

Making the family dollar go further takes determination, discipline, time, and lots of planning. Comparative shopping is one of the best ways to get the most for your money.

Learn to recognize a genuine sale or special. Not everything advertised is at a better price today than it will be tomorrow. Hunt the true bargains and buy what you need when prices are reduced. August linen sales might be a good time to buy gifts for Christmas.

Watch for differences in quality. Is the extra luxury of the higher priced items really worth the extra cost? In some items such as food, it is important to buy only the quality you need.

Top grade apples look beautiful on a fruit plate, but are really not necessary for applesauce.

Consider the maintenance required for clothing and household items. Low maintenance items may be worth a slightly higher initial cost. Don't pay more for convenience or special features than it is worth to you.

Always read the label. It will give you information that is helpful in the decision making process as well as in care and maintenance of the product.

Buy in bulk when it is a good buy and there is a price advantage if adequate storage is available. Spoilage and discarded items only increase the net cost of the items you do eventually get to use.

Deal with retailers and manufacturers who stand solidly behind what they sell.

If they go out of their way to serve you, they want and deserve your business. Get information from reliable sources. Contact your County Cooperative Extension Office for more information on buying.

Coping with inflation may change lifestyle

By JANE HONEYCUTT
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

EDITOR'S NOTE: In these times of rising inflation, many Mississippi families are finding it increasingly difficult to stretch family income. This fifth story of a seven-part series on Family Management tells how some families have altered lifestyles to cope and offers steps other families might take to deal with the problem.

Many Mississippians may have to change their lifestyle to cope successfully with inflation running rampant in the nation today.

That's the advice of Bonita Bridges, area consumer management specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, who spends much of her professional time working with couples who have trouble managing their money.

"Recently I counseled a couple with a transportation problem," she said. "They had explored alternatives such as walking, bicycling, carpooling and riding the bus. "As we worked through their problem, the husband said: 'I bet I could use my mother-in-law's car until one of our payments is paid off.' His mother-in-law cooperated and, within four months, the couple could handle a car note comfortably."

"Another client was driving 75 miles a day to work. He found a job nearer home and now drives only 12 miles a day," she said. "I know a college student who increased his income by offering a service - calling people to awaken them for class."

"People must accept the fact that they have just so much money to spend, and try to stretch funds as far as possible," Mrs. Bridges emphasized.

Lifestyles must be examined daily. Is a telephone needed? Can letters be written instead of calling long distance? Can smoking or snacking be given up?

Can walking to work when the weather is good help, or is a carpool available? Either change in your lifestyle can save dollars, she pointed out. "Examine food bills," Mrs. Bridges said. "People who eat out often will have substantially higher food costs. Some people might want to 'brown bag' and use lunch hours to read or catch up on correspondence or homework. Doing these kinds of things will save gas and food money," she explains.

"People who own large homes might consider renting a room for extra income. Checking and comparing rent or mortgage payments may mean people can move to a less expensive apartment or share living arrangements with another person or family to save money."

"People who have cut expenses all they can from existing income may want to consider increasing their paychecks. They may want to look for a better job or add a part-time job," Mrs. Bridges said. "Productivity and excellence on a job create a conducive atmosphere for pay increase."

Book Review

THE PHILOMEL FOUNDATION, by James Gollin, 1980. St. Martin's Press.

James Gollin scores an impressive victory with his first novel Philomel Foundation, the story of a classical musician who gets involved in a dramatic effort to bring a Soviet defector, a world famous musician, to the West.

Previously, Gollin was known for non-fiction works as Pay Now, Die Later, and Worldly Goods. His first attempt at fiction is more than successful.

Gollin's own ability as a musician comes through the story strongly. (He specializes in pre-classical music and is a soloist on the recorder. He also built his own harpsichord.)

His band of pre-classical musicians, known as the Antiqua Players, display all of the artistic temperament expected from classical musicians, but they put aside their music when it comes time to try to free Itzak Kobrand, the famed cellist, to defect to the West.

The climax both surprises and perhaps bewilders the reader, but it is the stuff of which good novels are made.

-R.A.C.

GHOSTS, by Ed McBain, 1980.

Latest in the fast-paced, skillfully detailed detective stories of Ed McBain, this is somewhat of a departure from his usual tale of a homicide detective going about the business of tracking down a murderer in that there are also elements of the bizarre, with a lovely medium and a haunted house with its attendant ghosts.

It is a snowy evening in the city of Isola, just four days before Christmas, as police detectives stand in front of an apartment house, with the body of a woman sprawled on the sidewalk at their feet—a woman who has been stabbed in the chest.

As Detective Steve Carella arrives at the scene, a new 87th Precinct murder mystery is off to the usual Ed McBain thriller, as a second body is found in the house, Gregory Craig, author of the best-selling book, "Deadly Shades," also stabbed.

As Carella works to find out if the murders are connected, the story gathers momentum, keeping the reader on edge until all is disclosed in the bang-up ending, with the author blending murder tale and ghost story into a satisfactory whole.

By Katy and Ronnie Caire

by an author who handles 18 major political campaigns in Louisiana as a public relations man.

The era covered is the 1940's, the 1950's and the 1960's when segregation was still the issue to elect candidates and protestant north Louisiana and Catholic south Louisiana regarded each other with alarm and suspicion.

In that era, the "rednecks" were usually, elected governor.

The term "redneck" comes from piney woods farmers who got the back of their necks sunburned red walking behind a plow hour after hour.

The attitudes and actions of the characters in this novel will make most of the characters seem familiar to Louisiana readers. They are typical.

The author traces one main character from the hills of north Louisiana to the Governor's chair and then records his stunning rebuke by the Congress. It climaxes with a surprise ending.

The reader may not learn to love the main character, but the reader will learn to know his actions and motivations through the rough and tumble of Louisiana politics at their best and at their worst.

The novel is both factual and entertaining. Caire's writing style is obviously influenced by his newspaper reporting background. (Robert Sullivan is a Louisiana native and Gallic poet.)

SIGN LOAN APPLICATION—A special meeting was held Friday for the signing of a loan application with Farmers Home Loan Administration for $300,000 by the officials of Waveland. Among those attending the meeting are, from left, Jack Toomey, alderman; Bill Wadley, FmHA assistant district director; Mayor John Longo; Herman Yarborough and Louis Smolensky, aldermen. The interest rate on the loan will be five percent if approved by FmHA. Longo said no bond issue or raise in taxes will be needed to repay the loan. An increase of $2 in minimum charges to water users will be used to repay the loan. The monies will go toward installation of 10-inch water mains between the Old Spanish Trail, US-90 and Nicholson Avenue with a loop being created within the city water system. A new water tower will be constructed in the vicinity of the Waveland Avenue and US-90 intersection. Waveland currently has two water towers. (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

ASCS REPORT

LOANS AVAILABLE
 Farmers who are planning to store their crops after harvest may wish to build additional storage facilities or expand their present structures through the farm facility loan program administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). Eligible producers may obtain funds to build or remodel typical conventional type on-farm storage structures such as steel bins, wooden granaries, and wet storage structures. Loans are also available for building high-moisture storage and silage storage space and solar grain drying systems. "Farmers who have adequate on-farm storage and drying facilities have greater crop handling and marketing flexibility at harvest," according to Franklin A. Gennin, executive director of Hancock-Pearl River ASCS. In years of over-abundance they can store their crops in good condition until prices rise, he added. "Pearl River and Hancock County farmers will find the program important because the ability to hold on to grain may prove the difference between profit and loss," the ASCS official said. If prices are low, farmers can put their grain in reserve and collect storage payments for storing the grain on their own farms, he continued. To be eligible for a farm facility loan, a farmer must grow one or more crops of barley, corn, dry edible beans, flaxseed, grain sorghum, oats, peanuts, rice, rye, soybeans, sunflower seed, wheat and high-moisture storage. Further details on the program may be obtained by contacting the local ASCS FEEDING

To enable more farmers to participate in the Emergency Feed Program, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service recently authorized a new option for determining whether a farmer is eligible for the program. "We will consider a livestock feeding period which begins from the date of application and ends with the crop year," Gennin said. The agency will also consider both the feed a farmer has on hand and the estimated production for the remainder of the year. Previously, the county ASC committee determined that the program's feeding period ended when additional feed normally became available to the farmer. Gennin said the new option will allow the producer to reserve some of farm's production for winter feed and use purchased feed to meet current needs. He explained that the regular requirement sometimes caused a hardship for farmers. The Emergency Feed Program authorizes ASCS to reimburse livestock owners a portion of the cost of feed purchased when a natural disaster has reduced the amount to feed normally produced on the farm. Payments are made at the rate of 50 percent of the cost of feed purchased not to exceed two cents per pound of feed grain equivalent. The applicant may buy feed in larger-than-normal quantities. The ASCS official said the program helps preserve livestock and prevents widespread selling or destroying of herds due to natural disaster.

McVeay critical of incumbent's voting record

Jimmy McVeay, Democratic candidate for Congress from Mississippi's fifth District, charged in a recent speech that his incumbent opponent's voting record can be tied to political action committee, (PAC) from which he has accepted donations. McVeay claims Rep. Trent Lott has accepted more than $65,000 from some 177 Washington-based PAC organizations. "Sugar, hospital costs, milk, gas and oil prices have skyrocketed since Lott went to Washington," McVeay claims. "Lott voted for price increases on every one of these products and then accepted PAC money from each organization representing these products," the candidate charges. McVeay said the milk PAC gave Lott $2,400, the sugar PAC gave him $750, the medical PAC gave him $700 and oil PAC gave him $2,400. McVeay also charges that Lott's campaign staff is the highest paid in Mississippi with an annual budget in excess of $500,000. "It is very difficult to accept Lott's statement that he is a conservative when the American taxpayer has to reimburse Lott and his staff for items such as flowers for the office, cokes, and mileage when traveling in the district he represents," McVeay stated. McVeay was also critical of Lott's recent role in national politics. "If Lott was a private citizen, it would be his right to participate; but as a Congressman, his duty should be to his district. He should be trying to bring jobs and industry to Mississippi; help curb inflation and represent the citizens of South Mississippi in Washington with their problems," McVeay feels.

"Operations and hospital rooms cost a lot more than you think."

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER REPORT

WEEK ENDING AUGUST 3 WEATHER SUMMARY (National Weather Service): One third of the stations recorded no measurable rainfall. Scattered showers and thunderstorms brought rain on 1 or 2 days at other locations. Merrill reported the largest amount with 1.85 on the 28th. For the entire state, average temperatures were just slightly above normal. Oxford recorded temperature extremes of 102 on the 31st and 60 on the 29th.

"CROP SUMMARY: Damage to the corn crop from dry conditions was beginning to show up as farmers cut corn for silage instead of waiting to harvest grain. The rains of recent weeks are being depleted and additional rainfall is needed. Pastures and some crops have been damaged by an increase in fall armyworms.

Soil moisture decreased from the previous week and was adequate to short over most of the state. There were 5.6 days available for fieldwork during the week compared to 3.7 days last week and 3.3 days for the same week last year.

Corn was 92 percent in the dough stage compared to 91 percent average. About 66 percent of the acreage was planted compared to 64 percent a year ago. The crop was in fair condition with 22 percent of the acreage mature compared to 28 percent average. Corn cut for silage was 39 percent harvested, ahead of last year's 33 percent.

Sorghum was 53 percent headed compared to 44 percent a year ago. "Hay was 63 percent harvested compared to 58 percent last year and 57 percent average.

Pastures were in fair to good condition though they were growing slowly due to the hot, dry weather.

Peanut harvesting was just underway.

Watermelons were 69 percent harvested compared to 81 percent last year and 72 percent average.

PEANUT HARVESTING WAS JUST UNDERWAY.

COUNTIES HARRISON CO. "Armyworms big problem."

CALHOUN CO. "The rain received several days ago is about exhausted and crops are beginning to suffer again."

LAFAYETTE CO. "Heat has damaged soybeans. Cotton has been damaged by heat. Insects are building up in cotton."

DE SOTO CO. "It is still very dry and hot. Corn on many acres did not pollinate due to the heat. We have had some soybeans to just die in the field."

TIPPAH CO. "Drought got 90 percent of the corn crop. Our farmers will be forced to buy grain this winter."

YAZOO CO. "A general improvement has been seen in crops since last week's rains. However, many soybeans were already stunted and blooming. Additional rain will be needed to fill pods. Cotton crop is shorter in height than normal but fruiting well."

LOWNDES CO. "Rainfall over county in last 2 weeks varies from 1 to 3 inches. Soil moisture varies accordingly. 100 plus temperature did about as much damage as moisture."

CLATSOP CO. "Moisture improved farm conditions on pasture, hay and soybeans. Farmers are trying to get rid of weeds in late planted soybeans."

PERRY CO. "Worms have been heavy in pastures, milo and corn."

FISH FARMERS NAME TUNE

At one time or another almost every Mississippian has stopped at a roadside food emporium to order the plate lunch of the day and munch it down to the tune of whatever jukebox selection somebody made.

Sometimes this makes us better appreciate the privilege of naming the tune.

America grew up with a "name the tune" philosophy, partially born at the popular barn dances that spanned this young nation, where it was common for the one who paid the fiddler to name the tune.

This philosophy has followed America through many walks of life. Probably its most indelible impressions are those made in the field of finance where the banker, or any other financial agency, has an unmistakable say about how his client invests the funds he borrows. The collateral required screws the principle down tightly.

Mississippi catfish farmers today are bright shining stars aglow on a somewhat dark economic horizon. Most of them, only a few years into the business, already have found out whether or not they personally have what it takes to succeed. And as a group they have been taught to name their own tune from the first strike on the fiddle — and it is paying off.

Most Mississippi catfish are grown in the delta where the clay soil makes an impervious pond lines, and where water can be tapped easily with a shallow well because of the high water table. The climate and cultural conditions there favor production of channel catfish, and Mississippi leads the nation in the production of these pond raised fish.

Success, however, does not happen automatically. Growers have to be extremely attentive to their ponds every day, carefully monitoring the daily condition of the water with respect to oxygen and other factors. Fish diseases can set in quickly if optimum cultural conditions are not maintained constantly. And an investment of thousands of dollars per acre can vaporize in thin air if the operator is negligent.

But assuming the best of cultural practices are followed, that alone has only pointed the operator toward a profitable operation.

Probably the most significant, collective factor in the success of this rising young agricultural industry is the wisdom of the beginning growers of this state to keep the lure of "contract growing" options to their back, and maintaining maximum personal control over their investments.

Though the production of catfish is expanding rapidly, Mississippi growers still are enjoying a seller's market, thanks to their system, and have a voice in the tune played at the marketplace.

MISSISSIPPI FORECAST

Mississippi will have near normal temperatures and below median rainfall in August, according to the Mississippi Weather Outlook Cooperative Extension Service.

Median rainfall amounts range from around three inches in the north to more than six inches on the coast, say agrometeorologists at the Mid-South Farm Weather Service in Stoneville who prepare the forecasts.

Average maximum temperatures range from the low 90s on Aug. 1 to upper 80s or near 90 by the end of the month. Minimum temperatures range from near 70 at the beginning of the month to the mid- to upper 60s at the end.

Less than normal rainfall will be hard on soybeans in their reproductive stage since many fields were short on moisture at the end of July. Some fields of cotton may need irrigation before the cutoff date around Aug. 20.

Normal temperatures in August are high enough to cause high rates of evaporation from rice. Several days may be hotter than normal, causing a need for longer hours of pumping to maintain a flood on rice.

Spraying conditions will be best in the cooler hours of the morning when the wind will be low. Insecticides may be applied most mornings when rain is not threatening.

Good periods will be available for cutting and curing hay, weather specialists say. Dew amounts will vary with soil moisture, but August is noted for dew drying before 8 a.m.

Pastures were in fair condition near the end of July. Fertilizers should be applied before periods of showers.

Poultry and stock heat stress should be less severe than in July. Hot days are still possible, but nights will be

Alcohol fuels group organizes in state

A group of Mississippians have joined together to form an Alcohol Fuels Association.

The officers are William Chatham, Hattiesburg, president; Tandy Wansley, Valley Park, vice president; Senator Ronnie Shows, Bassfield, secretary-treasurer; and P.C. McInnis, executive director.

Chatham who has worked in energy related fields for more than six years, states primary objective of the association is to promote alcohol production as an alternate source of energy, and to keep Mississippians informed and up to date on alcohol fuels as a source of energy.

The association will also select and recommend reliable companies for sources of supply for needed materials in producing alcohol.

The Mississippi Association will also be affiliated with the National Gasohol Association and the National Alcohol Fuel Producers Association.

The Mississippi Alcohol Fuels Association urges interested persons to join and be a part of helping Mississippi become independent of imported fuel oil.

To join, mail check for $25 to Mississippi Alcohol Fuel Association, care of one of the following:

William Chatham, 808 Grace Avenue, Hattiesburg, MS 39401.

Tandy Wansley, P.O. Box 278, Valley Park, MS 39177, or Senator Ronnie Shows, Rt. 2 Box 228, Bassfield, MS 39421.

"This is your chance to put Mississippi in the lead in replacing a gallon of alcohol for a gallon of imported oil," Chatham said.

During a recent meeting in Gulfport of the Soil and Water Conservation Districts from 17 counties comprising Area 6, some 65 Commissioners met to discuss problems and solutions to local soil conservation problems.

They also heard from Joe Cunningham, port director for the Port of Gulfport. A tour of the Port followed the meeting.

Richard Ellis of Seattle, Washington, gave the district commissioners a report and slide show on tours that the National Association of Conservation Districts direct to foreign countries. The Ladies Auxiliary, lead by Mrs. L.L. McLemore, met for a Tea at the "Grasslawn," hosted by the Gulfport Garden Club. Wallace Turner, Of Green County, was recognized as the Area's Outstanding Commissioner, and G. Lawayne Robinson, of Bay Springs, was recognized as the Outstanding District Conservationist.

Hancock County was represented by C.T. Favre, chairman, SWCD; Pat Necaise, district technician; Pam Jordan, district clerk; and Harry Patterson, district conservationist.

Coast suffered severe drought in '62, '63

Severe droughts, which affect the land's ability to produce plants, occur in Mississippi about once every 10 years, according to Dr. Bob Chapin, coordinator, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Land Use Center.

"Drought in the early '60s occurred in Mississippi six years in a row," he says. "Our 70-year average shows that we have a mild drought every two years, a moderate drought every five years, a severe drought every 10 years and an extreme drought every 25 years."

A physiological drought occurs when plants go more than 10 days without water. It varies with soil; sandy land generally dries out faster than clay soil.

All parts of the state may not have droughts at the same time because occasional showers occur in different areas. The Jackson area had severe droughts in 1904, 1918, 1921, 1924, 1934, 1938, 1943, 1952, 1964 and 1963.

The coast had severe drought in both 1962 and 1963. In Mississippi's driest year since 1899, only 26 inches of rain were recorded in 1925 at one station near Yazoo City.

A good source of data about drought is a publication by John C. McWhorter, agricultural engineer, "Severity and Frequency of Drought in Mississippi," published by the Water Resources Institute at Mississippi State, Mississippi.

Telephone company tells state economic impact

South Central Bell-Western Electric and American Telephone and Telegraph's Long Lines department—the three Bell System units which operate in Mississippi—contributed some $87.7 million to the state's economy via purchases last year.

South Central Bell is one of 23 Bell System operating telephone companies.

Serving 741,000 customers, the company employs 6,300 in Mississippi. The phone company purchased $62.5 million in equipment, supplies and services from large and small businesses in Mississippi last year.

Western Electric—the Bell System's manufacturing and supply division employed 287 Mississippians in 1979. The company's 1979 purchase in Mississippi totaled almost $24 million.

As the Bell System's main "purchasing agent," Western Electric makes nationwide bulk purchases for other Bell units, realizing substantial cost savings. Such savings help keep down the price of telephone service, according to Franklin Kyle Jr., district manager for South Central Bell.

Long Lines—the AT & T department responsible for the interstate and overseas long distance telephone network—made purchases in the state totaling $1.2 million in 1979. There were 131 Mississippians employed by Long Lines in 1979.

The Hancock County and Bay St. Louis Municipal School Districts and Annunciation School, Kiln, have announced a policy for free and reduced price meals and free milk for children served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials have adopted family size income criteria for determining eligibility as indicated on the accompanying scale.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk.

In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are argued to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applicants may be submitted at any time during the year.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for a signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is true and correct. An additional statement is added to warn that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of Federal funds, that school officials may, for cause, verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and Federal criminal statutes.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy, the principals of each school will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Bay St. Louis Superintendent of Education J.D. McCullough, Blue Meadow Road, 39520; or Hancock Superintendent Billy D. Sills,

P.O. Box 26 Bay St. Louis 467-4466 or Sister Clare, R.J.M., P.O. Box 96, Kiln, 39556, phone 265-1889 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the families eligible for reduced price meals or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls at or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, or national origin.

Each school and the offices of the Superintendents and Annunciation School have a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

National association accredits MUW's speech pathology program

The master's degree program in speech pathology at Mississippi University for Women has earned initial national accreditation.

The master's degree training program has been accredited by the Education and Training Board of the American Boards of Examiners in Speech Pathology and Audiology, the accrediting agency of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (formerly the American Speech and Hearing Association.)

The accreditation is for a five-year period beginning June 1, 1980 and ending June 1, 1985, according to Dr. Francis A. Griffith, professor and director of the MUW Speech and Hearing Center.

To obtain the valued status, a detailed written application was filed and approved by the Education and Training Board. Following this preliminary review, the MUW campus was host to two "site visitors," Dr. Griffith said.

Specialists who made the site visit to The W were Dr. Jerry Carney of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, and Tom O'Toole of the Montgomery County, Md., public school system.

In preparing a formal Education and Training Board report, the site visitors reviewed curriculum, on and off campus practicum opportunities, physical facilities and "the ability of the program to provide the academic and practicum experience necessary to be individually certified," Dr. Griffith explained.

Dr. Jean H. Lovrinic, chairman of the Education and Training Board, noted that MUW's name will appear in all published lists of accredited programs including the "Guide to Graduate Education in Speech Pathology and Audiology," "Ashe" journal, the American Speech and Hearing Association directory and list sent to prospective students each year.

The Professional Services Board of the Boards of Examiners in Speech Pathology and Audiology awarded first accreditation under full standards for services offered to the public by the Speech and Hearing Center at The W in 1976. In addition, a clinical certification board under the same agency certifies individuals in the speech, language pathology and audiology field.

Accreditation of the programs is voluntary, Dr. Griffith said. The rating for professional services is designed

Phillips College system acquires Colorado Unit

Phillips Colleges, Inc., headquartered in Gulfport today announced acquisition of the Blair Business College in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Blair Business College is a nationally accredited College of Business which has served the Colorado Springs and Colorado Western Slope since its founding in 1897.

Gerald C. Phillips, president of Phillips Colleges, Inc., also announced the appointment of Michael Schiedorn as director of the newly acquired college.

Schiedorn, who has a master's degree from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, has nine years of private college experience.

The college enrollment of 325 students is expected to show considerable enlargement within the next several years.

The addition of the Blair Business College brings to seven the total number of colleges owned and operated by Phillips Colleges, Inc. of Gulfport.

They are located in Augusta, and Columbus, Ga.; Jackson, New Orleans, La.; Tulsa, Okla.; as well as in Gulfport.

Each of the colleges are nationally accredited, degree-granting junior colleges or business colleges.

Total enrollments of full-time students is more than 3,000.

The joining of Blair Business College with Phillips' hand and let your children Colleges, Inc. represents the second step in an expansion program for Phillips Colleges, powder, cold milk and ice Inc., which was decided upon cream," she suggests.

Nutritious snacks important as meals

Nutritious snacks for youngsters are a must to help them develop good eating patterns.

"Choosing what you and your children eat between meals is just as important as planning a well-balanced breakfast, lunch or dinner," says Ann Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

Many snacktime foods require little preparation, such as apples, grapes, cookies and milk.

To add a bit of sophistication, try making miniature kabobs of apple chunks threaded with cubes of Cheddar and Swiss cheese and grapes.

Kabobs might also be made with leftover sliced hot dogs alternated with cheese cubes, she says.

"With the new fast burger makers, a grilled cheese sandwich can be made in just a moment. Spreading the bread on the outside with butter helps to brown it attractively and makes it taste better. For special treats,

Device furthers deaf communication ability

Deaf and speech-disabled people in Mississippi now have a new way to use telephone service.

South Central Bell has introduced a "Portable Communications Terminal" for use over regular telephone lines.

"Users of the device can conduct written conversations with other telephone customers who have compatible instruments," said Franklin Kyle Jr., district manager for South Central Bell.

"Words are keyed on a typewriter-like keyboard, and displayed in a lighted electronic read-out," he said.

The South Central Bell terminal, manufactured by Micon Industries, is compatible with most teletypewriters (TTYs) and with other telecommunications devices for the deaf (TDDs).

"For a number of years, deaf and speech-disabled people have used surplus teletypewriters for this kind of communications," said Kyle.

"In fact, South Central Bell has a service center that these customers use to contact us by teletypewriter. But there is a growing need now for a less expensive alternative to teletypewriters, and for portability. We think our new offering will meet the need," the company official said.

To place a call using the device, the caller places the telephone handset in the unit's cradle, and dials normally.

A status light indicates dial tone, ringing, or busy. When the called party answers by keying, for example,

"HELLO, THIS IS BILL, GA," the conversation can be conducted by typing in messages as desired.

In practice, abbreviations such as GA which means Go Ahead are often used. The unit is powered through regular AC outlets, and also can operate on built-in batteries.

Customers who qualify are eligible for a reduced rate - essentially at the company's cost - of $22.80 per month. Without the discount, the monthly charge is $28.50.

Customers interested in the Portable Communications Terminal should call the Customer Assistance Bureau at (voice number) 1-948-3742 (call collect) and (TDD-TTY number) 1-948-3671 (toll free).

Tips to beat the heat offered

When Irving Berlin composed "Heat Wave," he gave the song a saucy beat. Gershwin gave his "Summertime" a slower pace, full of easy living.

Most Mississippians have slowed the pace this summer to try to beat the heat, and State Board of Health officials say that's a good idea.

"Be aware of what's happening, know that we're having a heat wave," urged Dr. Durward Blakey, chief of the agency's disease control bureau. "Then take common sense steps to keep cool."

Heat affects people in different ways, Dr. Blakey said, but in extended periods of high temperature it's certain that almost everybody suffers. Inside or out, people can become ill or even die from overexposure.

"With constant exposure to high temperatures, the body begins to build intensive temperature," the physician explained. "Heat saps the energy and leaves the body with a dull, listless feeling. The body's built-in thermostat causes perspiration for cooling, but the sweat might not be sufficient for the body to get cool."

"When the body cannot cool itself, the central nervous system is affected," Dr. Blakey explained. "The person may stagger, feel dizzy, slur his speech, discuss irrelevant subjects, make inappropriate remarks. Finally, he will faint, and that means he must have immediate emergency medical care."

Youngsters whose built-in body thermostats have not fully developed and the elderly, whose heat regulatory systems have begun to break down, may suffer more than most people, Dr. Blakey said. Some researchers have shown that women do not adapt as well as men to the heat, he added.

People of all ages and incomes can avoid heat-related illness or death, though, through being aware and taking care.

"Remember that anything in terms of artificial cooling can help," Dr. Blakey advised. "Use fans or the air conditioner; circulate cool air, even if you have to put a bucket of ice or water in front of the fan. If outside, stay in the shade as much as possible."

"Wear lightweight, light colored, loose fitting clothing," he suggested. "Take extra baths or sponge the skin to keep moist, cool, clean, and infection-free." The key to keeping cool is in keeping the body fluids balanced, the physician said. Higher temperatures cause greater loss of fluids through perspiration, and the person who perspires heavily may need more water or other fluids to make up the loss. Fruit juice - diluted, perhaps, with water to lessen the sweetness - can provide fluid and refreshing nutrients.

Foods play another important role in the effort to beat the heat. Eating large, heavy meals in hot weather can cause the body temperature to rise; so people should eat fresh fruits and vegetables, plentiful now and rich in vitamins and minerals.

Salt used in cooking and on foods eaten raw will be sufficient replacement for that most people lose in perspiration, Dr. Blakey emphasized; few people would lose enough to need extra salt. Adequate sleep in a cool place will give the body an opportunity to cool itself and rest in preparation for the next day's heat.

Taking steps to prevent heatstroke and heat exhaustion is particularly important for people who must work in hot environments, commented Harry Laird, director of the State Board of Health occupational safety and health division.

Work-related health and safety standards do not address the temperature, he said. But A. DeJean King, area director with the U.S. Department of Labor, which administers OSHA in Mississippi, said employers should be aware of the danger for employees in too hot environments.

"Places with little or no air conditioning that could get by in normal temperatures are now feeling the pinch," King said. "Work places with heat-producing equipment are particularly hard hit."

"Employers should try to give as much ventilation, air flow, as possible," he suggested. "Perhaps they could have a system of checking on the employees, watching for signs of heatstroke."

"Every employer should have an emergency plan for responding to ill individuals, and they should be certain that everybody involved is aware of the plan. They need to know where to get medical help and to get it immediately."

Arbor Day Foundation offers group profits

The National Arbor Day Foundation is now making it possible for organizations to sell trees for fall planting as a fundraising project.

Youth and school groups, clubs, churches and other organizations can sell trees in their community to raise money for their activities, and the Foundation will mail the trees directly to the customers' homes.

The local sponsoring organization never has to handle the trees, according to the Foundation.

The Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life in communities throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. "Trees are an unusual fundraising idea, much different from the usual candy or cookies. Trees can be a profitable fundraiser because many people will buy several," a Foundation representative said.

Red Maple, Sugar Maple, Redbud, Weeping Willow, Tulip Tree, and White Flowering Dogwood trees are sold for $3.50, including a profit of $1.25 per tree for the local sponsoring organization.

The trees are four to six feet tall and come with complete planting instructions. They are delivered at an appropriate time for fall planting.

The Foundation says that for best results, trees should be sold from August 15 to October 31 for fall delivery. Organizations may obtain sample sales literature and further information by calling (402) 474-5655 or writing the National Arbor Day Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, NE 68101. The National Arbor Day Foundation is a non profit organization dedicated to promoting the planting and care of trees.

The law of cause and effect applies to everything in life

Nothing can happen without a cause. If we do the right things now, pleasant effects will be produced in the future. For instance, if we save money now we will have this money to spend at a time in the future when we will probably badly need it.

If we study now and prepare for better earnings, it will enable us to get jobs that will pay much better in the future. The laws of cause and effect apply to everything. Nothing escapes. Your present-day condition and circumstances are wholly due to the law of cause and effect.

You have probably said, as millions of people say constantly, that if you had your life to live over again, you would know what to do and how to do it much better, and everything would be different. But you can't live your life over again.

However, you can study conditions and determine what will happen in the future and be ready for what comes. As an example, you can easily determine, from what you can see of the people around you, that it is wise to be thrifty and to save your money and buy a home; that it is most important that you train yourself in some line of work so as to be better able to make a living, and that those who have their land producing to capacity in timber will have the means with which to carry them through in old age.

As another example, if the United States is prepared for war when war comes we can win the war, while on the other hand, if we complacently allow our enemies to get the upper hand, we may lose the war and be thrown into slavery.

If you do not take action now to prepare for the future, there is a penalty awaiting you. Instead of getting a good job, you have to accept poor pay; instead of having a lot of fine timber to sell off your place, you will have but little money from your property.

Many of us do not realize the importance of time. Benjamin Franklin said, "Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that's the stuff life is made of." None of us has any time to waste.

Palmer said, "He is not born for success who knows not the value of time. Time flies and it cannot be recalled. You can dawdle and do nothing, but time goes on." Thomas Fuller said, "He that has the most time, has none to lose. 'Tis an old saying that what a man sows, that shall he reap."

Many times it is not easy to know what one is sowing. Children do not know what they are sowing. The future of the child is chiefly, if not wholly, in the control of the parent. Too many parents take into consideration only the immediate present in the shaping of the personality of the child.

"As the twig is bent, so the tree is inclined." This is a proverb that is always true. We find adages in abundance stating this same fact. In the shaping of a child's life, the future is what's important. "As the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined."

Of course if a twig is bent wrongly it can always be bent back to the correct position, but it will always be deformed, showing scars. Or another example, you can drive nails into a plank, and then pull them out, but the sign or the scar where the nail was pulled out will always be there.

In the training of the child, obedience is of the utmost importance and should begin in the first year of life. In training a puppy, the master compels it to repeat an act many times until the dog knows the meaning of obedience.

This assures it a happier future than if the times for insisting on the same results were postponed. If heaves the dog many whippings in later life. The future of the child is infinitely more important than that of the dog, and for this reason the training should be as thorough.

The boy that undergoes punishment when older could have escaped all or nearly all of it if he had been taught strict obedience at the very start. It has been shown that many crimes of hot-headed people are traceable directly to lack of obedience when young.

It is much better to build a house from the foundation up than to re-make it from the top down. A poorly built house with a poor foundation can be repaired, but it is much wiser to be sure of a good foundation at the start. Many of the misfortunes of a man or woman can be traced to errors or inattention in their young days.

Birds are taught to build their homes against coming events, and to migrate when winter approaches. Most animals left to themselves are told by nature to make their winter homes.

The winter of human life is its last years. How can any man go through his productive period of life on up to old age and not provide a home and, if possible, an income for later years?

It's hard to understand, yet we see people right around us going merrily along, spending all they make, and making no provision for the winter of life. They are not looking ahead.

There is a cause for everything that happens. What a person does now will be the cause of his condition in the years ahead. I repeat, looking ahead is the only faculty that has any real value.

Working by the week or month and spending everything is merely living from hand to mouth, while future-seeing builds for the future years of life - for the winter of life.

One of the sweetest of all earthly blessings is the old home where the old parents are living free from debt and with enough around them to assure their keep until their time comes to go to their maker.

Such old folks are always in better health and in better spirits because they are free from worry. I know of such old people and I know this is true. One old couple comes to mind, the old man is past 90 while his wife of more than 80 years is way up in her eighties. Both of them have their tasks around the place; the wife helping to cook and in other duties while the old man tends his garden, looks after the fires in cold weather, and otherwise makes himself useful around the place.

This is a case of future-seeing - these old people saved, and looked ahead to this very time in their lives. Love and satisfaction mark their lives and they show a conscious pride in their independence - they are rejoicing over their lives in a grand victory over care and worry simply because they had the foresight to prepare for just such a time.

In other words, their actions back in their younger days have caused this fortunate condition for them now. Yes, there's a cause for everything. So I repeat, buy a home or build one and pay for it as fast as you can.

I cannot urge too strongly home ownership for all. On a long time basis a home does not cost you anything. If you don't buy a home you are going to have to pay rent and the rent over a period of years will pay for the home.

Another way to pay for a home is to stop spending for useless things and invest this money in a home.

Looking ahead, future-seeing, is the most important faculty that you can have.

Gerontologist urges listening as key to effective living

Listening, not talking, is the key to effective living.

"When we listen to a person and really hear what he says, or when someone takes time to hear us, we share the essence of our being," says Dr. John Lovitt, gerontology program specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"All of us have a need to reach out and have others accept us as we are. When someone accepts us and understands our feelings, our loneliness and isolation are diminished," he adds.

"Listening is the foundation upon which relationships are built, the cornerstone of all effective communication."

AIRMAN HARLAN

Airman Lynn M. Harlan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Harlow of 16013 Pear-Drive, Biloxi, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the communications-electronics systems field.

Her husband, Air Force Airman Michael E. Harlan, is the son of Eloise L. Harlan of 901 Courthouse Road, Gulfport.

CADET K.A. SMITH

Kevin A. Smith, son of Navy Captain and Mrs. Edward G. Smith of 108 Beachview Circle, Long Beach, recently completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Pittsburgh Air Force Base in New York.

During the encampment, cadets receive survival and small arms training and aircraft and aircrew indoctrination.

They also have the opportunity to observe careers in which they might wish to serve as Air Force officers. Cadet Smith is a student at the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington.

SEAMANTILLERY

Navy Seaman Recruit Dennis H. Tillery, son of Arnold and Bernice Luginbill of Pearlman, Miss., recently participated in exercise "Multiplex 1-80" in the Indian Ocean.

He is a crewmember aboard the aircraft carrier USS Constellation homeported in San Diego.

The two-day multi-threat exercise placed emphasis on U.S. and British Royal Navy joint anti-air and anti-surface warfare tactics. The exercise was the first of a series conducted with the British force during his ship's deployment to the Indian Ocean.

The Constellation is 1,072 feet long, displaces over 80,000 tons and carries a crew of 2,800 officers and enlisted men. It can accommodate approximately 65 aircraft and more than 2,150 personnel assigned to an aircraft wing. Tillery joined the Navy in June 1979.

We can develop listening skills through practice. We can practice listening to ourselves. When we make a statement, we can ask what we have conveyed.

Was that the feeling we wanted to communicate?

We can practice listening to family members. When someone speaks to you, various ways that people identify the feelings he is conveying and feed that feeling back. Check to see if that is really what he or she is feeling, he suggests.

Practice listening to friends, peers and fellow workers. Identify the feelings they are verbalizing. Compare the various ways that people communicate the same feeling. Listening can be exciting.

"Developing listening skills takes time and practice, but the rewards are well worth the effort. It has been said that you never hear anything when your mouth is open," he adds.
